

Aboriginal Rights Lawyer

For more than 40 years, Goldblatt Partners LLP has blazed trails for working people and trade unions across Ontario. While labour law remains our core practice area, we also have thriving civil litigation, public interest and criminal law practices, and represent clients in a broad range of other types of disputes.

This includes an Aboriginal law practice, in which we work with Indigenous governments and individuals to advance and protect their Indigenous and treaty rights, and to build space for greater self-determination. Our Aboriginal law practice includes litigation at all levels of court and before administrative tribunals, as well as negotiations with governments and proponents.

We are currently inviting applications from lawyers called to the Ontario bar with between three and seven years' experience, to join our Aboriginal law practice group.

The successful candidate will have:

- Litigation experience
- A record of academic excellence
- Strong analytic, research and writing skills
- A demonstrated interest in and familiarity with Indigenous rights, Aboriginal law and constitutional law
- Availability to travel for work with Indigenous clients across Canada

This is a contract position for a term of approximately 18 months, with the possibility of extension.

Goldblatt Partners is committed to a culture of diversity and inclusion. We encourage members of all equity-seeking groups to apply.

Please apply by sending a copy of your resume, law school transcripts and writing sample to the attention of Vanessa Payne at vpayne@goldblattpartners.com.
